It's refreshing to see you say it's difficult to make you angry. I'm similar in that respect. :).

Yeah? That's a pretty good start then. I dont remember the last time I lost my temper haha.

I saw you like Eluveitie (i definitely had to double check the spelling on that name, for some reason i always get it wrong). I love some of their stuff, my fav is A Rose For Epona :)

I love that track! Yeah, I have a thing for symphonic folk metal!

There's a Tunisian metal band called Myrath that has a bit of an Arabian zest to it that I've been listening to lately. They even have a song about Daenerys from Game of Thrones. I was listening to their latest album for the first time and it was obvious when it came on that it was about her. And though they're not quite Dothraki looking, they remind of Dornish characters because of that Mediterranean vibe.

There's just something about adding a bit of cultural heritage to some well composed symphonic metal that sucks me in. I suppose it makes it more interesting and exotic to me.

Yeah? I'll look into them. That actually sounds pretty interesting. I like when cultural elements are added too...though i almost never read lyrics haha.

For instance there's a Mongoloan folk metal band called Tengger Cavalry that uses this...guttural singing. I love their song War Horse. No idea what they're saying but I love it

I can appreciate that! I looked to the lyrics to Dessumiis Luge, my favorite Eluveitie song, and I actually was amused that it was basically a pretty nasty curse on the Romans. The chanting and screaming in it and makes a lot of sense if it was basically an incantation to bring destruction on the Romans who invaded the Gauls. I find it fascinating.

I've never heard that one. Another thing to look into ☺ I'm actually pretty excited about it. I look into new music all the time and it's often a complete shot in the dark so it's nice to have some good info haha.

And it looks like I have to look into their lyrics too. I enjoy good lyrics but it's so rare in metal. Did they come up with the lyrics or was it something they took from a source?

The song I mentioned was actually taken from a tablet found in the 1970s that had been inscribed as a spell. I know about that one because I spent a long time researching it when I first heard it. I wanted to know what it meant because it always gave me chills, but in the best ways. Once I found out what it was, it only made me want to use it to make this really cool fantasy scene in my head come to life. Perhaps one day... It's a weird quirk of mine, I have a rather active imagination.

I'm always happy to recommend bands. Most of the bands I listen to are pretty obscure, except maybe Kamelot Back on my PC now so can actually listen, this Dessumiis Luge song is pretty interesting. Sounds pretty primal and not really like their other stuff.

For sure recommend some. I know quite a bit about metal and used to be like...REALLY into it haha. This was me when I was 18 if it gives you some idea. <http://imgur.com/a/xu9rJ>

The primal part of it is what makes me want to have a really hot pagan ritualistic naughty scene outside... I love how intense it sounds!

And I don't want to sound like a creeper, but that picture is gorgeous!

I'll have to look through my stuff and find more stuff to recommend

Like in The Crucible? I don't think that ended very well for the people involved in the ritual.

It's okay, you can creep all you want ;)

Lmao .. More like... campfire and a scantily clad primal pagan priestess doing/being a ritual sex sacrifice.. it's one of my kinks. I'm glad I have consent to creep, thanks ^_^ . Really though, you're incredibly attractive. And from the looks of it, strong too!

Thanks :) You're not so bad yourself...

So what exactly does pansexual + open relationship mean? Easier to just ask than try to draw conclusions from google.

I'm pretty strong but always want to be stronger. It's an obsession.

*blush* Thank you!

For me Pansexual means that gender doesn't necessarily play a role in attraction. I don't really feel like I exclusively like people that identify as male or female, and I don't require any specific anatomical parts to be present to be interested in someone. Some people even prefer to be gender neutral, so bisexual wouldn't be inclusive enough for me. Open relationship, for me, means that I'm polyamorous and am open to having more than one significant other. My specific style of polyamory/ethical non-monogamy is basically that anyone I'm in a long term relationship and/or long term power exchange with is notified of any interactions I have with others, and anyone I am interested in is given clear explanations of my present relationships. Also, if I play/date/interact beyond friendship with someone who has significant others, I prefer to be in open communication with them and abide by their limits in addition to those of any persons interact with.

And I'm not sure how much you know about kink, but power exchanges involve a relationship based on some form of relationship with ties to the BDSM/kink community. :).

Ah, okay then. That's why I asked instead of trying to figure it out myself. So I'm guessing it wouldn't bother you that I'm married and in an open relationship? Until about 10 min ago it wasn't clear on my profile.

She is. So far she hasn't had a problem whatsoever.

So...do you want to hang out sometime? Get coffee/drinks/whatever? Whatever you're comfortable with.

That would be awesome! Coffee or tea is pretty much what I'm limited to, I'm on a crazy strict health regiment with dietary restrictions, but I can still go to cafes. :)

Nice! When are you free? I make my own schedule so I'm pretty much free 24/7. The only time I have plans this week so far is Monday night after 5.

I have plans most of Tuesday, I'm getting henna put in my hair (it's a completely natural way to deepen the red) and it takes up most of the day because it sits in for 8 hours. But I'm free any time Monday and on Wednesday morning/afternoon.

I work part time and am kind-of half housewife in the communal house I share with 3 people so my schedule is erratic, but generally flexible outside of my work schedule

Hah okay. This is fine then.
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fPHuQFN7L70>
This is one of my favorite songs. It's different from a lot of the music I listen to. The lyrics are incredible. The third "arc" is my and Michelle's Favorite (about the dam builder)
It gets stuck in my head all the time. I could talk for ages about it.
