Transcript of Jail Call - October 31, 2017; 1948

BC: Brendt Christensen

EW: Ellen Williams

9:24

BC: I've kind of been trying to figure out how long I can sleep each day.

EW: Mmm.

BC: Uh...

EW: And how long do you make it?

BC: Well, on average I've been sleeping about 12 hours a day. That seems pretty easy.

EW: How much?

BC: 12 hours. That's easy.

EW: What, 12? Wow.

BC: Um...

EW: Gosh.

BC: Yeah, um, it's not like a depression thing or anything like that it's just more of a time passing thing. Just seeing how fast the days go. Um...

EW: Right.

BC: 12 hours is pretty easy, um. I bet I could get to like 14 maybe. I don't know. It's...it's kind of a weird thing but it's what I've been...cause, you know, when, when I sleep now I get woken up by meals and all that kind of stuff so it's not continuous sleep. It's just, um...

EW: Right.

BC: Yeah.
