Body like you hear about open relationships where the guy can't get anything because he's a sloppy loser and basically turns into a cuckold

Body Jealousy is a weird thing. I'm not jealous but I still feel a bit possessive over her in an indirect way. I'm very very confident in myself right now since in the best shape I've been in in like 8 years and haven't had trouble getting women. I think if I was insecure in either of those ways it wouldn't work

Body She's had one boyfriend this entire time. My rules are that I don't really want to meet the guy or see any...evidence of it. Also that we still spend time together and I'm always #1 for her, which hasn't been a problem yet. Her rules are similar but she's less strict on knowing about stuff than I am.

Body It's more that I want to test my limits and experience everything. I'm not technically into BDSM but I think it's pretty interesting and I'm already dominant enough where it should be easy for me to explore.

Author Brendt Christensen (1262760463)

Sent 2017-04-18 15:50:22 UTC

Body I feel that. I think I would have eventually hardcore cheated if this didn't happen. I love her more than anything but all these repressed emotions and desires were slowly...corroding my mind.

Body Physicists are pretty similar to engineers in a lot of ways. Right now I'd consider myself a specialized engineer more than anything else. Lots of computer programmers, fabrication of devices, improving of systems, etc. A lot of people who graduate from here work for IBM and Intel designing and improving computers.
