

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE CENTRAL DISTRICT OF ILLINOIS

In Re: Petitions for Retroactive)
Sentences Previously Imposed for)	No. 11-MC-2042
Certain Crack Cocaine Offenses)

ADMINISTRATIVE ORDER

The United States Sentencing Commission (USSC) has again reduced somewhat the longstanding disparity between sentences recommended by it for powder cocaine and crack cocaine in the advisory sentencing guidelines. In the exercise of its lawful authority, the Commission decided to make its advisory guidelines for these offenses, under certain circumstances upon the appropriate findings of the presiding judge, retroactive. The effective date of this retroactive application is November 1, 2011. However, the new statutory mandatory minimums enacted by Congress contained in the Fair Sentencing Act are not retroactive, and the statutory mandatory minimum penalties in effect at the time of imposition of a defendant's sentence are unchanged by the Sentencing Commission's decision to make the new advisory crack cocaine guidelines retroactive.

To ensure the efficient adjudication of requests seeking a reduction of a sentence pursuant to the retroactive guideline amendment, this Court, en banc, orders the following:

1. The United States Probation Office shall contact those inmates who it determines may be eligible for a sentence reduction pursuant to the retroactive amendment, informing them of their potential eligibility and providing them with a copy of this Administrative Order.

2. The Federal Public Defender's Office for the Central District of Illinois (FPD) shall be appointed to represent each defendant (petitioner) who files a petition or motion seeking relief pursuant to the retroactive guideline amendment, by whatever nomenclature the litigant places on the document. The FPD shall thereupon decide specifically which attorney within the FPD office shall be individually assigned to each case. Should the FPD determine that there is a conflict for a particular petitioner, it shall file a motion to withdraw with the Court. Upon grant of such a motion, the Court shall appoint a panel attorney to represent the petitioner.

3. Prior to the November 1, 2011, effective date of the retroactive guideline amendment, representatives from U.S. Attorney's Office, the U.S. Probation Office, and the FPD Office shall confer to identify those petitioners who may be eligible for immediate release on November 1, 2011. In those cases where the U.S. Attorney does not oppose a sentence reduction to "time served as of November 1, 2011," the parties shall file prior to November 1, 2011, a pleading with the Court indicating the agreement of the parties. In such cases, the U.S. Probation Office shall provide the presiding judge, the U.S. Attorney's Office, and the FPD with a brief summary of the petitioner's original guideline calculations, new guideline calculations, new projected release date, and a summary of any institutional adjustment or public safety factors relevant to the judge's decision. If the presiding judge accepts the recommendation of the parties, it shall prior to the effective date of the amendment and without a hearing enter an Amended Judgment and Conviction reflecting a sentence of "time served as of November 1, 2011," which will allow for the immediate release of the petitioner on the effective date of the amendment.

4. All other cases not addressed in paragraph 3 above shall be automatically stayed until November 1, 2011. Petitioners shall have 120 days from November 1, 2011, or from the date on which counsel was appointed, whichever is later, to file an amended petition and the government shall have 30 days thereafter to file its response. Representatives from U.S. Attorney's Office, the U.S. Probation Office and the FPD Office shall confer periodically to identify those cases where an agreement concerning a petition can be reached and file any such agreement with the Court. In such cases, the U.S. Probation Office shall provide the presiding judge, the U.S. Attorney's Office, and the FPD with a brief summary of the petitioner's original guideline calculations, new guideline calculations, new projected release date, and a summary of any institutional adjustment or public safety factors relevant to the judge's decision. If the Court accepts the agreement of the parties, the Court shall without a hearing enter an amended Judgment and Conviction reflecting the new sentence. Priority shall be given to those petitioners eligible for release the soonest.

5. The clerks office is directed to implement this order by entering the FPD as attorney of record in each case relevant to the issues discussed in this Order, sending a copy of this order to the petitioner who seeks to have his sentenced reduced pursuant to the retroactive guideline amendment and who files his moving document prior to November 1, 2011, and to send copies of this order to the FPD, U.S. Attorney, and posting it on the District Court's website.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
